Common explanations :

The first element of the code represents the numerical value of first letter, considering A-Z as 1-26.

For Example: Disk

The first element would be 4, which represents the numeric value of D.

The second element of the code represents the codes as per number of letters as shown in the following table.

Number of letters	Code
4	#
6	&
7	$
8	%
9	@

Disk has 4 letters, so its middle code would be # as per the table.

The third element represents the second letter of the respective word.

Second letter in the word Disk is 'i', so the last element would be 'I'.

Thus code for Disk would be 4#I.
