Who: Delhi high court

What: banned online sale of medicines across India

When: published on 13th December 2018

In a landmark ruling, the Delhi high court has ordered a complete ban on the online sale of medicines across the country.

The HC also directed the Centre and the Aam Aadmi Party government in the national capital to ensure that the order is implemented immediately.

According to a report in The Times of India, a bench of Chief Justice Rajendra Menon and Justice V K Rao passed the order on a PIL filed by a Delhi-based dermatologist.

The PIL expressed concern over the unregulated sales of medicines on the internet. Lakhs of medicines which are transacted through e-pharmacies every day, pose a huge risk to the patients and doctors alike, it said.

The plea also highlighted that the online sale of medicines is actually not permitted under the Drugs and Cosmetics Act, 1940 and Pharmacy Act, 1948. “Unlike common items, drugs are highly potent and its misuse or abuse can have serious consequences on human health.”
