Hints to Remember

Who: Colin O'Brady from America

What: completed trek across Antarctica

When: published on 27th December 2018

An American adventurer has become the first person to complete a solo trek across Antarctica without any assistance. Colin O'Brady, 33, took 54 days to complete the nearly 1,000-mile (1,600-kilometer) crossing of the frozen continent from north to south.

O'Brady and an Englishman, Army Captain Louis Rudd, 49, set off individually on November 3 from the Union Glacier in a bid to be the first to complete a solo, unassisted crossing of Antarctica. In 1996-97, a Norwegian polar explorer, Borge Ousland, made the first solo crossing of Antarctica but he was wind-aided by kites on his voyage.

O'Brady and Rudd set off on cross-country skis dragging sleds called pulks which weighed nearly 400 pounds (180 kilograms). O'Brady reached the South Pole on December 12, the 40th day of his journey.

He arrived at the finish point on the Ross Ice Shelf on the Pacific Ocean on Wednesday after covering a total of 921 miles. Rudd is about a day or two behind. O'Brady said he made the decision over breakfast to finish his journey in one continuous push.

Hints to Remember

Who: Jasprit Bumrah

What: ends 2018 as highest wicket-taker in international cricket, overhauls Kagiso Rabada

When: published on 30th December 2018

Jasprit Bumrah has been a true revelation for India in Test cricket. Making his debut earlier this year in the series against South Africa amid all the raising question, Bumrah finished the year with 48 wickets in Test cricket relying on his consistency with the pace and ability to bring in variation to the table. And on Sunday, after dismissing Pat Cummins in the second session of the final day of the third Test against Australia at the Melbourne Cricket Ground, he overhauled South African speedster Kagiso Rabada to become the highest wicket-taking bowler in 2018 across formats.

Bumrah has been the Man of the Match in India's glorious 137-run win in the Boxing Day Test that helped the visitors take an unassailable 2-1 lead in the series and also retain the Border-Gavaskar series. Bumrah scripted a career-best and a record-breaking figure of 6 for 33 in the first innings that helped India fold Australia for an abysmal score of 151. And the second innings, he finished with a three-fer. The nine wickets at the MCG takes his overall tally to 48 in 2018, the highest by an Indian bowler on overseas soil in a calendar year.
